Hippodrome ..... Billy Malone
Photo plays.
Nelson ..... Breed of Men
Dixie ..... Beating the Odds
Princess ..... Castles in the Air

If there is a better grouch chaser in town than Billy Malone and his bevy of pretty girls, as they and the balance of the company are seen in "The Burglar," you've got to show us. Built up on a story that, while overdrawn is certainly true to human nature, the plot is one funny situation after another. As a benevolent lady with high ideals, and advanced opinions for the reforming of criminals, Anna Cook is at her best. She enters into the spirit of the part with an enthusiasm that makes the part stand out well in the bill. Billy Malone of course is time in the part of the husband, who though brave, objects to looking for burglars on the sensible ground that if they want him they will look for him. Vi Shaffer puts life into the character of the wife who knows her husband is no coward, but wishes he was braver. Dick Butler, the burglar is all in a mix when he finds himself being persuaded by both the husband and wife to rob them, but he doesn't forget what he came for when the reforming Aunt starts in to lecture him, and he lifts her purse with $500 (possibly not real money) and makes his getaway while she is preparing his supper, a la christian reform. Dick is a fine fellow, and he hasn't tried to do anything yet he couldn't get away with. Lew Mack sustains his reputation for versatility in an admirable manner. As the correspondence school detective, he delivers the goods in a manner that would make a Pinkerton look like a cigar store Indian. The finishing touch he puts to the show is a scream. The musical numbers are all good. Jacques Wilson who has worked her way into the hearts of the Hipp patrons by her winning personality off stage as well as by her clever work in front of the footlights is dainty in "Rockabye My Baby". Marie Bruger is getting better acquainted, last night was not so self-conscious as she sang "N' Everything". She does it better than any other number we have heard her in. Vivacious Vi handed us another new one "Has Anybody Here Seen Jimmy"? It is one of those songs that she excels in, and the audience liked it fine. Dick Butler puts over "Peach Jam Makin' Time" not heard at the Hipp before. Lew Mack is just right in "How Ya Gonna Keep'em Down on the Farm?" He has a good voice, enunciates clearly, keeps in perfect pitch and doesn't let his numbers drag. If you like Hookum, you will not care for this bill. It is good, straight, clean from beginning to end, and is clear above the ordinary type of musical tab. An additional feature to the above bill last night was the Country Grocery at which $15 worth of groceries were distributed free. A fine house enjoyed both the bill and the grocery the latter furnishing much good-natured fun.

Western Style Picture.
William S. Hart's new Artcraft picture "Breed of Men" is a story of land development scheme in Arizona and the unprincipled methods of a land shark are exhibited in all their bald heartless details. Mr. Hart appears as a bad man who becomes sheriff and finally rounds up the individual who has swindled all kinds of people out of their money. The picture will be shown at Nelson theatre today.

Many of the big scenes were filmed in Chicago at the stock yards while the Artcraft star and his party were in the mid-west on their way home from the star's wonderfully successful Liberty Loan tour. The picture was completed in Hollywood and in Los Angeles. There is some wild riding and plenty of thrilling action, and from all appearances the story will be one of the breeziest the favorite Western actor has yet figured in.

Mr. Hart always excels in a role wherein he is seen as a dare-devil of the open country and this is described as just such a part—one with plenty of speed, red-blood and that desirable quality known as "pep". The star is his own director and is sparing himself nothing that will make the picture most effective.

Harry Morey, at Dixie.
"Beating the Odds" is the title of the story at the Dixie today, a film version of "The Money Maker", at the time of its publication one of the best selling novels on the shelf. In addition, there is the serial "The Man of Might."

Comedy at the Princess.
A Metro comedy "Castles in the Air" is on the Princess screen today, together with a Pathe News.

CLOSE UPS.
—A new man is on the job as musical director at the Hipp, having reached here Wednesday from Covington, Ky. He bears the cognomen of Richard O'Grady. Usually it is just plain Dick Grady, and when he publishes music as he frequently does, it is R. Grady, the assumption being that the sunny Italy style of spelling induces sales which he is much interested in. "Sweet Simplicity" and "Chimes of Twilight" are his most recent works. Mr. O'Grady took occasion to remark about the growth of Fairmont as it impressed him. He was here in 1911 with Al G. Fields' minstrels, and says the city has undergone some remarkable changes since then, but he regrets that the hill from the B. & O. is just as steep as ever.

LEW MACK.

A clever young man in juvenile parts with Billy Malone at the Hippodrome. In "The Burglar" he makes good as a detective, besides taking a good song number.

For the benefit of his patrons D. B. Amiller, of the Watson cafe, has installed an Allen water purifier, which enables him to serve pure filtered water. The plant while not large is a very effective one. The water passes through a fine grained unglazed porcelain tube and later to a compartment where it passes through a carbon packed passage.
